principle for last night's peculiar orders kept out then - that slept without orders before (2) we devote is he who is ever alert to all to and obey it without any question absolutely not at fault. Suppose - A is told to do a thing by his Queen - A does it strictly and agrees with her orders - however the Queen

- in order to test his love of H - rebukes him severely even abuses him, beats him, in the presence of the whole Mandali - for doing a thing without her order - although the orders were really given by her for the same - What does that love of H do? Does he argue - defend - or say a word?
Not one - rather he admits that he is at fault though really he is not - यत्तु यत्तु यत्तु

यत्तु यत्तु - That is a Yat -

See here how? & what do we do? has to speak hardly for the fault of some one - say A - the gentleman at large In A - at once begins to reason his eyes begins to think a thousand thoughts in his mind argues defend - etc etc although he is not
